Mamaleh Knows Best: What Jewish Mothers Do to Raise Successful, Creative, Empathetic, Independent Children Marjorie Ingall

We all know the stereotype of the Jewish mother: needy, hectoring, guilt-inducing. In Mamaleh Knows Best, Tablet parenting columnist Marjorie Ingall argues that this stereotype is a misrepresentation of a specific parenting style; in reality, the best of Jewish parenting involves equal parts support, motivation, encouragement, adventure, concern, and brisket. In ten chapters, using personal anecdotes, historical texts, and research from today's leading parenting experts, Ingall lays out the commandments ("why mess with a classic?") --value education, fill your life with meaningful ritual, maintain discipline--for bringing up self-sufficient, ethical, and accomplished children. Ingall will make you think, she will make you laugh, and she will make you a better parent. You might not get a Nobel Prize-winner, like Albert Einstein's mom, but you might just get a good human being.
